

This is the main screen the user will be presented with. It includes a search filter bar, as well as a button to redirect you to good mental health resources. As can be seen at the bottom, there is a settings button and a saved button. The saved button acts as a place to view links and profiles of providers that the user prefers.

Resources

Back to Search

There are many resources available to help you with your mental health. You can find a therapist, support group, or self-help materials. It's important to take care of your mental health and seek help when you need it. There are many ways to get help and support. You can talk to a professional, join a group, or use self-help tools. It's important to find what works for you and to keep trying if you don't see results right away. There are many resources available to help you with your mental health. Settings

If the user chooses to seek out external resources or other mental health help, they will find a plethora of reading to do on this page.

If the user opens the Filters menu, they will be presented with collapsible categories that they can open and select pertinent information regarding themselves. This is only saved during the current session for privacy reasons.

If the user clicks on the saved providers button at the bottom of the screen, this is a mock up of the page they will be presented. It is a simple, scrollable list of their saved providers, with the ability to delete any provider with a button.

If the user chooses to delete a provider from their saved list, they will be asked to authorize that action to prevent accidental deletions.

This is the settings menu. I'm sure I will come up with more settings than "Dark Mode", but for now this is just to give an idea of what it looks like when "Settings" is pressed.
